B:passage ١: Read the passage and answer the questions.(٢pts)

Scientists believe that prehistoric people used many gestures to communicate with one another. Gestures, it is thought, were our first form of communication and the only one we had for a long period of time. Even today we use some sign language; for example, we shake our heads to indicate yes and no, we point, and we wave.

The first spoken words may have been attempt to copy the sounds made by animals. Then people may have developed sounds of their own. Gradually, people may have repeated certain sounds so often that the sounds became familiar and understandable to others. Once spoken language had begun perhaps new words where invented as they were needed for people to express themselves verbally or to name new objects. In this way we can imagine language growing.

By using words, parents were able to teach them to their children .The children in turn, probably made up new ones. Each generation, therefore, in the development of language, knew more words than the generation before it. Language is still growing and changing.

Can you think of some words that you use today that were not used by your parents or your grandparents when they were children?

Passage ٢: Read the passage and answer the questions.(٢/٥pts)

Nutrition is the process by which plants and animals take in and use food. Food is needed to keep the body running smoothly . It provides energy for work and play, for breathing , and for the beating of the heart .The building material for muscles , bones, and blood comes from food . You can't have a healthy body without healthy eating and drinking. Not enough of some foods, or too much of others ,can lead to illness.

The food and drink you take in are called your diet.(This word is sometimes used in another way, to mean eating less food than normal in order to lose weight , as in "going on a diet")

A person's diet is so important because growth and health depend on it. Dietician are people with knowledge of special diets(dietetics) , such as those used for sick people in hospital.

We should never forget that across the world between ١٣ and ١٨million people die each year from starvation and the diseases it brings; most of them are babies and young children. For the millions more who suffer from lack of food(not enough of the right foods), healthy eating is out of the question. It is hard enough just to try and stay alive.
